Tanzanian women have an average of 5.4 children. Fertility has decreased since 2004-05. Fertility ranges from 3.9 children per woman in Eastern Zone to 7.1 children per woman in Western Zone.

23% of teenage women have already had a birth or are pregnant.

27% of currently married Tanzanian women are using a modern method of family planning. This is a sizable increase from 201% in 2004-05.

45% of unmarried sexually active women are using a modern method. Male condoms (16%) and injectables (15%) are their methods of choice.

Injectables and pills are the most commonly used modern methods among married women. Injectable use has increased from 8% in 2004-05.

50% of married women in Kilimanjaro use a modern method, the highest rate in Tanzania.